

TJ Edwards Named to Valparaiso Plan Commission

TJ Edwards has been named to the Valparaiso Plan Commission, announced Valparaiso Mayor Matt Murphy. “TJ has demonstrated his commitment to Valparaiso in many leadership roles for more than a decade and we’re delighted to have his talent on the Plan Commission,” said Mayor Murphy.

Edwards is a lifelong Valparaiso resident with more than 20 years of experience serving the medical industry. He currently works for OrthoPediatics, serving the Chicago market as a specialist in products to assist children with scoliosis. Edwards has previously served the City of Valparaiso on the Board of Zoning Appeals, the Valparaiso Park Board and was appointed by the Valparaiso Democratic Precinct Committee to serve on the Valparaiso City Council. He is a graduate of Butler University.

The Valparaiso Plan Commission, along with the Board of Zoning Appeals, oversees planning and zoning to for the city, reviewing rezoning proposals, subdivisions, plat approvals, annexations and overall development within the city. For more information, visit Valpo.us.
