

Ethan Lowe Named to Valparaiso Redevelopment Commission

Ethan Lowe has been named to the Valparaiso Redevelopment Commission, announced Mayor Matt Murphy. “Ethan’s longtime commitment and background in the City of Valparaiso make him an excellent addition to the Redevelopment Commission. We look forward to his expertise on this important commission,” said Mayor Murphy.

Lowe is a longtime Valparaiso resident and serves as Corporate Counsel for ENVOCORE in Valparaiso. He formerly served as city attorney for Valparaiso while he was in private practice. He serves on the board of directors for Porter County Aging & Community Services as well as for Porter-Starke Services and the Porter-Starke Services Foundation. He has also been appointed to the Porter County Board of Elections and Registration. Lowe earned his bachelor’s degree from Purdue University and his law degree from Indiana University Robert H. McKinney School of Law. He and his wife, Heather, have three daughters, Kendall, Katelynn and Delaney.

The Valparaiso Redevelopment Commission plans and develops projects aimed at redevelopment throughout the city of Valparaiso, utilizing tax increment funds (TIF) and grant funding for approved projects. For more information on Valparaiso’s RDC, visit Valpo.us.
